High Court Upholds Sunday Blue Laws

Md. Statute Constitutional, Tribunal Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court Monday upheld blue laws of Massachusetts, Maryland and Pennsylvania, which regulate retail selling on Sunday.

Chief Justice Earl Warren wrote the controlling opinions in four cases testing the statutes.

The decisions will have a bearing on many similar state laws. Most states have Sunday statutes of some kind.

For many years, the Supreme Court has shied away from involvement in the "blue law" controversy. But decisions could not be avoided when appeals came up from federal, rather than state, courts.

Md. Law Constitutional

Warren made it clear in the Maryland decision that Sunday laws conceivably could violate the freedom of religion guarantees in the Constitution if it can be demonstrated that their purpose "is to use the state's coercive power to aid religion."

But he said the particular Maryland law being tested is constitutional.

A combination of commercial and religious interests brought the blue law tests to the high court.

The religious argument was asserted by orthodox Jews, supported by other groups which observe Saturday as the Sabbath. They contended that a Sunday closing law or other Sunday restrictions discriminates against them and in favor of the Christian sects, in violation of the religious freedom guarantee in the constitution.

Exemptions Attacked

Discount houses which wanted to keep open on Sunday also argued that exemptions as to some businesses and specific items of merchandise are an unconstitutional denial of "equal protection of the laws." Drug stores and news dealers, and many of the products they sell, are usually exempted.

State authorities argued that the laws, while religious in origin, have come to be merely "day of rest" statutes.

The National Retail Merchants Association told the court that if Sunday became "just another business day" the additional expense of keeping open seven days would drive marginal retailers out of business and possibly increase prices.

Some states require stores to close on one unspecified day during the week. By custom, Sunday is that day.

Castro Offer Seen Blunder

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration counter-attacking against criticism, said Monday Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro blundered by offering to swap Cuban prisoners for bulldozers and this nation boosted its prestige by calling his bluff.

The campaign, reportedly directed by President Kennedy, is aimed at countering criticism of U.S. support for the exchange. Republicans have said American prestige would be hurt if the United States gave in to "what they called blackmail by Castro."

In the forefront of the campaign was Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., who described former Vice President Richard M. Nixon as morally, legally and politically wrong for denouncing the exchange.

And Edward R. Murrow, director of the U.S. Information Agency, told a news conference that Castro's offer raised "a ground swell of disgust" against Castro throughout Latin America.

Ex-Coal Miner First Recipient Of Food Stamps

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman Monday handed $95 in food stamp coupons to an unemployed father of 13 children to unveil an administration experiment for feeding the needy in chronic unemployment areas.

The first recipient in the nation was 47-year-old Alderson Muncy, a short, balding ex-coal miner from the mountain town of Paynesville.

Muncy, who hasn't worked in a year, told reporters, "I had it about as tough as anybody would want it to be."

The Muncys were the first to receive their coupons but they were not the first to purchase food under the pilot program.

Mrs. Elbert Hale of Davy, made the first stamp purchases when she filed through the line of a nearby store with $27.71 worth of groceries.

The Hales, who have eight sons from 1 to 15 years of age, will have their food purchasing power increased by $70 a month under the program.

The food stamp center, opened here in the McDowell County Welfare building, was the first of eight pilot projects to be launched in the next five weeks to test the feasibility of the plan.

It is built on the premise of giving stamps, rather than cash, to the needy to make certain that the additional purchasing power is used for food.

Freeman told several hundred persons waiting for their turn in the food stamp line that the program held "great promise to elevate the nutritional standard of our country."

In addition to Welch, the program will be tried on an experimental basis in Illinois, Kentucky, Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico and Pennsylvania.

Nation Joins In Tribute To Dead Of Eight Wars

By The Associated Press
Their bugles are silent. Their battles are done. They rest today in the bivouac of the dead. But they are remembered — and honored — for the torch of liberty which they passed on to a nation.

"The right," Woodrow Wilson once said, "is more precious than peace."

It is for that conviction that they perished, 1,128,393 of them, in eight major wars fought by the United States, and it is for their sacrifice that America pays special tribute Tuesday.

The occasion is Memorial Day. And in the green-carpeted cemeteries across the land, wreaths will be placed on the graves of heroes.

Yet, in a sense, "we cannot hallow this ground," Abraham Lincoln said at Gettysburg. "The

Autoists Speed Toward Traffic Death Record

By United Press International
American motorists killed off themselves and fellow travelers at a rate approaching five an hour Monday on a spring holiday period set aside to honor the nation's war dead.

The traffic death toll for the Memorial Day weekend climbed above the 300 mark 11 hours before the start of the holiday itself and soared steadily toward an almost certain record high.

By 5:30 p.m. EDT a United Press International tally showed 315 persons dead in traffic accidents. There were 118 other violent deaths for a total of 433.

The breakdown: traffic, 315; drownings, 64; planes, 1, and miscellaneous, 53, for a total of 433.

California counted 28 traffic deaths while Michigan had 24 and Illinois 21. New York had 20, Texas 18, North Carolina 13, Pennsylvania 11 and Kansas 10.

The death pace on the highways was the most killing ever logged in a Memorial Day period. It climbed above 4.6 casualties per hour.

"This Memorial Day will become the most tragic we have ever recorded unless motorists show more respect for traffic law and exercise better judgment in every other way," National Safety Council President Howard Pyle said.

The existing record death toll for a Memorial Day was 371 in 1958's three-day holiday. The preliminary estimate this year was 415 for a 102-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Tuesday.

Korean Junta Asks U.S. Aid

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—South Korea's military junta sent birthday greetings to President Kennedy Monday, reaffirmed its friendship with the United States and asked for more aid.

Li Gen Chang Do-yung, army chief of staff and chairman of the junta, who sent the birthday message, told a news conference the junta is seeking more aid to carry out its still vague economic program.

Authoritative sources said the junta leaders have assured U.S. Gen. Carter B. Magruder, the United Nations commander in Korea, they will give "fair treatment" to some of the generals under his command who were arrested for refusing to back the May 16 coup.

The sources said few of the 15 generals reported under arrest will be punished. Those arrested include the commanders of the ROK 1st Field Army and the 2nd Support Army and the commanders of four of the five army corps under Magruder's command.

The words and deeds of that conflict, and others, will be recalled in ceremonies, speeches, prayers, and parades, as the country salutes its war dead.

And the haunting notes of taps will sound their loss: "Lest we forget."

In the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va., soldiers of the 3rd Infantry's First Battle Group will place American flags on all of the 109,000 graves there.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, will represent President Kennedy in placing the presidential wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Boston Hails JFK At Giant Birthday Fete

President Leaves Tonight For Europe And Summit Talks

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy interrupted a resting and reading holiday vacation on Cape Cod Monday to fly to Boston for a king-size birthday party in his honor.

The President, who arrived at his father's summer home here late Saturday for the long Memorial Day weekend, celebrates his 44th birthday Monday night at Boston's Commonwealth Armory.

More than 5,000 persons bought tickets to the $100-a-plate birthday dinner, a Democratic fund-raising affair to whittle down the party's deficit.

Police ranks were beefed up to handle more than one million persons—perhaps as many as two million—who were expected to turn out to hail the native son on his second return to Boston since his election last November. Mr. Kennedy came back last January to attend a meeting of the board of overseers of Harvard University, his alma mater.

Leaves Tuesday Night
The President's visit came on the eve of his departure for Europe for talks with French President Charles de Gaulle, Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Eighteen Democrats and one Republican—Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts—were on hand at Boston's Logan Airport to greet Mr. Kennedy. Political chants with Democratic big-wigs were scheduled at a downtown hotel prior to the dinner.

Hundreds of telegraphed birthday greetings flowed in Monday while President Kennedy was busy with his diplomatic homework at the Kennedy family compound on Nantucket Sound.

Sees De Gaulle Wednesday
Mr. Kennedy begins his momentous talks with De Gaulle in Paris on Wednesday and later with Khrushchev in Vienna. He also will hold a brief meeting with Macmillan in London.

The President will leave Hyannis Port for New York late Tuesday to confer with Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and address a dinner for the Eleanor Roosevelt cancer research foundation. He will take off from Idlewild Airport Tuesday night.

It was announced Monday that Mrs. Kennedy will visit Greece "for a week of rest" after she completes a diplomatic tour of Paris, Vienna and London with the President.

The government mobilized all its armed forces to cope with trouble expected in the approach to republic day in midweek.

Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd denounced the stay-at-home movement among Negroes, mulattoes and Indians as "a manifestation of the grabbing hand of communism over Africa." He rebuffed demands of nonwhites, who make up 13 million of South Africa's 16 million people, for the right to vote and a share in the government.

No city or industry or even a single service was totally paralyzed. But effects of the first day of the strike, called to continue until South Africa becomes a republic Wednesday, were noticeable from the shops of Johannesburg to the docks of Port Elizabeth.

The government-controlled radio declared the strike "a nationwide failure." But it admitted in the same broadcast that the work stoppage was 80 per cent effective in some vital sections of Johannesburg, the nation's largest city and commercial center.

White merchants had a problem even when their nonwhite help showed up, for nonwhite shoppers on whom they depend stayed away. This gave rise to fears that the strike might develop into a boycott of white shopkeepers as a weapon in the non-white campaign against the administration of Verwoerd.

Violence Flares In South Africa Negroes' Strike

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Violence broke out Monday night after the first day of a strike called by nonwhites as a mass demonstration against the white government of this emerging South African republic.

The first outbreak came when Negroes in a segregated suburban township stoned Negro police who work for the government. White reporters on the scene had to dodge hurled rocks.

Heavy police patrols toured Negro settlements to defend home-bound Negroes who had defied the nationwide strike orders and gone to work while a large percentage of nonwhites stayed home.

The white government mobilized all its armed forces to cope with trouble expected in the approach to republic day in midweek.

Virginian Pays His Income Tax Under Protest

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP)—A Virginian who has refused for eight years to pay his state income tax because of the state's segregation policy paid part of it Monday, but under protest.

Norman E. Mathias wrote a check for $1,017, saying he was told he'd be jailed if he didn't pay.

Mathias said he would ask a federal court to prevent the state from collecting the balance of his tax bill, about $3,000, because "the state, in effect, doesn't have clean hands."

Soviets Block Laotian Peace Parley Session

GENEVA (UPI)—The Soviets blocked resumption of the deadlocked Laos peace conference Monday as the United States was preparing to press its charges of "cynical disregard" by the Communists of the Laotian cease-fire.

A Soviet spokesman announced postponement of the conference "for at least one or two days" shortly after Russia and Britain announced the 14-nation talks would be resumed for the first time since last Wednesday.

In London, the foreign office said British ambassador to Moscow Sir Frank Roberts had been instructed to seek a new meeting with Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister V. Kuznetsov to try to break the Geneva deadlock.

U.S. delegation leader Averell Harriman had been expected to take the floor at Monday afternoon's postponed session to detail U.S. charges of cease-fire violations by Communist-led forces in Laos.

The United States originally made the charges in a report issued outside the conference Saturday. It accused the Communist side of 33 recent breaches of the truce in Laos.

The postponement followed an exhaustive meeting between Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi Pushkin and British Co-Chairman Malcolm MacDonald. They failed even to reach agreement on what the conference should discuss.

Sources said that rather than risk ending the conference now, MacDonald suggested a postponement.

Observers believed the Soviet delegate was stalling while awaiting instructions to the conference to send new directives to the International Control Commission for more technical facilities.

Federal Injunction Hearings Begin; 17 'Riders' Face Trial

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—Gov. John Patterson Monday proclaimed the end of martial law at midnight Monday and praised the Alabama National Guard, called out at the height of race rioting May 21, for "restoring public confidence in law and order."

The federal government meanwhile opened hearings into its call for an injunction which would restrain top Montgomery and Birmingham, Ala., law enforcement officials and others, notably Ku Klux Klansmen, from interfering with interstate bus travel.

At Jackson, Miss., authorities put 19 "freedom riders" to work on a prison farm Monday and prepared to try 17 others for attempting to break segregation barriers at a Jackson bus terminal.

Patterson credited the National Guard with quelling "an explosive situation dangerous to all citizens." He said the guard showed "the world that this state can and will continue to maintain law

Four Training Schools In Md. Overcrowded

BALTIMORE (AP) — State welfare officials say four Maryland training schools for delinquent youngsters are overcrowded.

Raymond L. Manella, chief of training schools for the Department of Public Welfare, said the situation "worries us because of severe pressures built up in the youngsters and staff."

Manella reported overcrowding at the Barret School for Girls in Glen Burnie, Anne Arundel County; the Montrose School for Girls near Reisterstown, Baltimore County; the Maryland Training School for Boys near Towson, Baltimore County, and Boys Village at Cheltenham in Prince Georges County.

Only one forestry camp, at Lonaconing in Garrett County, was reported under capacity. Two other forestry camps — at Green Ridge in Allegany County and Meadow Mountain in Garrett — are overcrowded like the training schools, Manella said.

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Danny Kaye, who has always been a particular pet of royalty and was one of the few actors who ever moved freely in Princess Margaret's set before her marriage, is expecting a pair of royal visitors from another part of the world. Princess Mikasa and her husband, of the Japanese royal family became so friendly on Danny's recent trip to Tokyo that he informally invited them to be his guests in Hollywood. Much to his surprise the new democratic outlook of oriental royalty came through—and they took him up on it.

Friends who were in Japan at the time Danny was, report it is impossible to overestimate the good will the irrepressible Mr. Kaye stirred up. The press dubbed him "The okay Mr. Kaye" and so important were the concerts he put on for Japanese children for UNICEF that five Asian countries sent representatives to get a first hand view of American aid in action.

Those hot young record sellers, Dodie Stevens and Frankie Avalon, have been signed as the leading "Voices" for — of all things — the King of the Monkeys and his cute, underslung orangoutang girl friend in "Alakazam, the Great".

Voices of other monkeys and assorted animal characters will be those of Jonathan Winters, Sterling Holloway and Arnold Stang and composer Lee Baxter will whip up the words and music for producers James Nicholson and Sam Arkoff.

Joan Collins who has practically made a career out of being where Warren Beatty is may decide she'd rather be with him in London this summer than to accept her newest 20th assignment with Jayne Mansfield in "Second time Around".

This is because Beatty is being signaled by Sam Spiegel to headline "Dangerous Silence" with Jack Lemmon—a movie to be filmed in England. Warren and Joan are just back from England where she sat on the sidelines while he made "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" with Vivien Leigh. In order to be with her fiancé, Joan took one of her numerous suspensions from 20th Century Fox for turning down "Sons and Lovers."

Pretty Julie Benveniste, who just won the "Miss Los Angeles" contest, has come to Evelyn Farney at the Magic Door to coach her for her special number in her next competition, "Miss California" on June 17th. There was a time when all that was expected of a beauty contest contender was that she parade in a bathing suit without falling off the ramp. Now the girls have to deliver much more.

Julie sang "Singin' in the Rain" when she won her Miss L.A. title, and for the "Miss California," which is more demanding, she's asked Evelyn to coach her in a dance routine. Julie is such a darling she has plenty of people pulling for her to win the state beauty title.

Obviously Mickey Rooney is doing all he can to get his affairs in shape and is writing a clean slate. The split with his production partner Red Doff is expected to be followed by a switch in agents from Goldstone-Tobias to GAC.

Red's departure from the Rooney partnership of eight years is not as complete as it sounds since he retains certain interests in current and past ventures including a percentage of "Everything's Ducky" said at Columbia to be Mickey's best movie in years.

Except when she's working, Kim Novak is giving up life in Hollywood and she takes up residence permanently in New York with the completion of "Notorious Landlady." Her Beverly Hills home is up for sale and as this is the only property Kim has ever owned it leaves her scot free of ties on the coast.

The gal loves New York and will take an apartment and possibly buy a home in a suburb. The move also appears to write finish to any chance of her romance with director Richard Quine being rekindled. He has to stay in Hollywood to direct films. (Copyright 1961)

"Old Ironsides" Makes Voyage

BOSTON (AP) — The music was "Anchors Aweigh" at the Boston Naval Base Monday as the 167-year-old frigate USS Constitution — affectionately called "Old Ironsides" — slipped from her pier, her war-tattered ensign flying.

For 364 days a year, the historic fighting ship lies at her wharf. She was the scourge of the Barbary Coast pirates, and served in the war of 1812.

And then comes a spring day. A bosun's mate pipes the commander of the 1st Naval District aboard, and the old ship moves down harbor—a little humbly — guided by three tugs.

The traditional voyage down the harbor was peaceful — and brief. Its principal purpose is to turn the old ship around at her berth for the year ahead—to prevent warping of her masts and yardarms from the sun and prevailing wind.

Valiant's got the perfect figure to go with its beautiful face!

Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price for Model V-100 3-door Sedan, transportation, taxes (local and state) extra.

Expensive beauty? Everybody thought so. Then we revealed the figure. Turns out, Valiant doesn't play hard-to-get at all. In fact, prices start $100 lower than 1960 models. Most people just made an honest mistake. They took one look, they took one ride, or they heard a Valiant owner bragging. The upshot was that they thought Valiant cost more than ordinary compacts. We're here to tell you that nothing could be further from the truth. Look at that figure! Match it to the high trade-in allowances we're making. Makes a mighty pretty picture! Let us sketch it out for you... in person. Come in this week.

The low-price compact that looks and drives like twice the price... Valiant

The award will send Spencer on a visit, starting July 10, of marketing enterprises, outstanding farms, agri-businesses, and successful Extension and research projects in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Maryland.

Spencer will be joined on the tour by extension agents from other states in the Northeast Region who won similar recognition under the Study Tour Scholarship program, an activity sponsored by the Dow Chemical Company, Midland, Mich., in cooperation with the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

Extension agents in agriculture are selected for the scholarship on the basis of their work in promoting various agricultural programs in their counties and their efforts in professional improvement. Director Knapp explained here today.

Upon graduation from West Virginia University in 1947, Spencer began his extension career as assistant county agricultural agent in Pocahontas County. He has been in Grant County since 1949 as county agricultural agent.

Director Knapp pointed out that Spencer has done excellent work on many Extension programs, including 4-H club work. Under his direction, 4-H livestock projects have been tripled; he has coached State Champion 4-H Poultry Judging Teams, and he took the lead in the improvement of 4-H camp and the Tri-County Fair. He has carried on a successful agronomy, poultry, and livestock program in Grant County. He has worked closely with other agencies and organizations.

Girls Escape Injury When Brakes Fail

Five Frostburg State Teachers' College coeds narrowly escaped a serious injury Sunday when brake failure on the automobile in which they were riding sent them on a wild, harrowing ride down Big Savage Mountain.

The runaway vehicle finally came to a stop inside the city limits when it rammed into the side of a store.

The car's driver, who managed to dodge traffic all the way down the steep incline, was Miss Bonnie Brendle, 18, of RD 1, Everett, Pa. Passengers were Jeannine Metz, Regina Halle, Rilla Whitten and Margaret Loftin. All are 19 years of age and are from Baltimore.

The girls reside at Hafer Boarding House, a home for female students of the college, which is not too far away from where the car smacked into the store owned by Herbert Loar, Frostburg finance commissioner. Miss Brendle, in recounting the experience, said she and the four other girls went for a ride west on U. S. Route 40 and upon returning towards Frostburg, a tire went flat on top of Big Savage.

After it was repaired, she said, they resumed the homeward trip and had started down the mountain when she discovered the brakes were not functioning.

Miss Brendle stated that she steered the auto to the berm of the road and rode it down the mountain while continuously blowing the horn. After reaching the foot of Big Savage, she started up the hill into Frostburg and was dodging oncoming traffic.

Upon entering the city, she said she struck another car ahead of her in front of the Frostburg Auto Company Garage. The other driver, according to Miss Brendle, apparently noticed something was wrong and braked his car.

She maneuvered her automobile into the driveway of the garage and crashed into the side of the building, where a large portion of the wall was knocked out at the point of impact.

Miss Brendle added that brakes on the auto were repaired following the accident and that her father came to Frostburg from Bedford and was able to drive it away.

Cpl. Charles DeWitt of the Maryland State Police, who was at the garage at the time of the incident, investigated.

Use a good moisture cream and manipulate your facial muscles in gentle, upward motion to ward off withering

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Take Firm Steps Against Withering

Route the ravages of dry, withered skin with constant complexion care and cosmetic support. A parchment-like complexion can tell lies about your age. It adds decades, undeserved even by women in their sixties.

We have come to picture a collapsed, creased and careworn complexion as a characteristic confined solely to the elderly. This isn't so. Parchment skin can be detected in some women while they are still in their twenties.

Many more watch their faces wither away in their 30s and 40s. Withering attacks dry skin when it begins to grow flabby. When it is exposed, to large doses of sun and wind: when it suffers from retarded nourishment and starves for the treatments that will soothe, soften and support its surface and contours.

Women who spend a great deal of time out of doors pay the heavier toll in time for complexion care. Well-known sports figures will bear me out in this, as well as ranch wives, farm wives, and amateur sports enthusiasts. They can testify to the trials of coping with roughness, discoloration and webbing with cracks and wrinkles that give them that withered look long before their time.

What do they do about this? They feed a steady flow of moisture to their faces, the clock around. During lengthier lubricating sessions, they manipulate their facial muscles in gentle upward motions. Around the chin, throat and upper chest, they concentrate special attention, pinching and patting the skin to keep it firm and to increase blood circulation.

When all their emollients are wiped away, they apply refreshing toning lotions to tighten pores and contours. At least once a week, if not often, they spread a mealy mask to completely cover face and throat. (Cosmetic counters offer several made especially for dry skins.)

One of their happiest discoveries among recent cosmetic innovations is the contour mask meant to be worn under a make-up foundation, giving just enough taut support to the skin to keep its clean lines and firm surface.

Dr. J. C. McLean Resigns Post As County Physician

Dr. James E. McLean, this city, has written the Allegany County Board of Commissioners a letter of resignation from his post as county physician.

The resignation, to be effective June 30, was "accepted with regret and reluctance" in a joint statement by John J. Rowan, board president and Commissioner William A. Wilson.

Dr. McLean stated in his letter that the press of other duties necessitated his decision, and said his association with the present and former boards had been "pleasant" and marked by a spirit of cooperation.

Rowan said it was his opinion that Dr. McLean had "done a wonderful job taking care of the older residents of the county, who by no fault of their own, are wards of the county."

Allegany County, the board president continued, is "suffering a great loss with the resignation of a man of Dr. McLean's character."

The doctor said he would work with his successor until such time as would be needed for him to become acclimated to the county position.

The commissioners accepted the bid of McIntyre Chevrolet for a new cruiser for Sheriff Paul Haberlein. Its low bid was $1,090.25. Three other firms submitted bids.

In other action, the board rejected the only bid submitted for a proposed annex to the Allegany County Library. The work called for construction of a garage for the library's bookmobile, installation of a driveway and erection of an elevator. The bid totaling $16,900, was felt to be too high.

S. W. Judy appeared before the board to register a complaint about a drainage situation affecting his property in Amelle Acres along U. S. Route 220. He was advised that the situation would be investigated by Rowan and Harry Skelly, county roads engineer.

Plans Tariff Cut

GENEVA (UPI)—Great Britain plans Monday to offer a 20 per cent reduction on its industrial tariff if the United States and the European economic community will offer the same. Sir Edgar Cohen, Britain's delegate to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) will make the offer at the opening of tariff-cutting negotiations, scheduled to start Monday.

City Is Asked To Annex Property Near Park

The city received a proposal yesterday for the annexation of a large undeveloped tract of land adjoining Constitution Park.

But a provision in the proposal calling for an access road through Constitution Park, brought opposition from Street Commissioner John J. Long who said the park is one of the bright assets the city has left and should be protected.

Long said he would give the petitioners any access they want, from Williams Street or Willowbrook Road, but not from inside the park.

The move for annexation was made by Frederick L. Wempe and Betty P. Wempe, and Charles W. Redinger and Hazel E. Redinger. The tract includes 43½ acres, lying partly within and partly without the city limits. The right to use city water and sewage facilities also was asked.

Wempe had appeared before council some time ago to describe plans for a housing development in the proposed annexation area.

The matter was referred to City Attorney William R. Carscaden and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum to check the petition, prepare the proper resolution and present it to council.

Long said the move should be held up until other access is granted.

Annexation, as such, is good for both the parties involved and the citizens of Cumberland but not if it affects the park, Long asserted. The 20-foot road which would lead to the area would cut through the most beautiful grove of the park, he said, adding "I feel strongly about this. The park is one of the most beautiful assets we have left and should be protected."

Shell test drivers add a "fifth wheel" to their cars for precise distance measurement during mileage tests. It helps them record performance to a decimal point.

Shell reveals how to increase your mileage up to 30 extra miles per tankful

Here are some tips from Shell's experts on how to get maximum mileage from your car. If you practice these good driving habits—and if you use today's Super Shell, with 9 ingredients for top performance—you may well save a pretty penny on gasoline bills.

- 1. Don't race a cold engine. When your engine is cold, it uses up more fuel. Today's Super Shell contains Pentane mix—for fast warm-up. (A properly operating thermostat helps.)
- 2. Use a light touch with the accelerator. Tromping down on the pedal is an expensive habit. Starting up, it holds your automatic transmission in a lower "gear" longer. This makes the engine turn faster, wasting fuel. Under way, uneven pedal pressure is costly, too. Instead, feed just enough fuel to maintain even speed.
- 3. Drive "ahead of your car." Watch for slowing traffic and red lights as far ahead as you can see. You'll be able to coast up to the stopping cars, instead of braking heavily when you get there.
- 4. Don't let fuel costs creep up. If your car "creeps" when idling

- fuel, oil whenever manufacturer recommends.
Have automatic transmission or clutch checked regularly.
- 9. Get regular oil changes and lubrication—including transmission and differential. Your Shell dealer knows what to do. He has the finest equipment and lubricants to do it with. There's a good chance your car and your gasoline will last longer.
 - 10. Show this advertisement to everyone who drives your car—especially if you pay their gasoline bills. Insist that they stop for service at the sign of the Shell.
While we can't guarantee 30 extra miles per tankful, the closer these suggestions are followed the better your mileage is likely to get.
To start off right, fill up with today's Super Shell. Its nine ingredients mean top performance.
- Super Shell's 9 ingredients
- #1 is TCP for restored power, added mileage and extended plug-life.
 - #2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr.
 - #3 is Butane for quick starts at all times.
 - #4 is Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines at high speeds.
 - #5 is anti-knock mix for knock resistance.
 - #6 is an "anti-icer" to check the cold-weather stalling that can occur even at 45° F.
 - #7 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups.
 - #8 is gum preventive—to help keep carburetors clean inside.
 - #9 is Platformate—to add the extra energy that shows up as extra mileage.
- Try Super Shell. You'll soon feel and hear the difference in the way your engine runs. That difference is top performance.
- A Bulletin from Shell Research—where 1,997 scientists are working to make your car go better and better.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U. S. Patent 2889212.

The Meaning Of Memorial Day

As we observe Memorial Day, 1961, it is fitting that we pause for a moment and reflect upon what it is we are observing.

Memorial Day in recent years has become a signal for the beginning of the summer vacation season — a time to get away from the routine of home, office or school for a day or two. It marks a dividing point.

Memorial Day is a day set aside to honor the dead of the wars America has fought. It was originally to honor the dead of the Civil War. Now it includes those of the Spanish-American War, World Wars I and II, and the Korean War.

The men we are honoring gave their lives that this nation might live, that the way of life embodied in its Constitution might continue, and that men might be free — not only in the United States but in other countries as well.

It is particularly appropriate, in these days when the world is faced by the threat of encroachment by international Communism and the United States itself is concerned about its "national purpose," that we recall why these men fought and died. And we might well consider the closing words of Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, which have as much vitality today as when he spoke them almost 98 years ago:

"It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us — that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that great cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion — that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain — that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom — and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

These Days

What's Good For The Goose

In its effort to plug the holes in income tax collections, the Internal Revenue Service and President John Kennedy have been receiving some astonishingly ridiculous advice. Some of it is difficult to understand, as before he became President of the United States, John Kennedy got around more than a little. He knows that a $30 a day expense account will not help sell steel in big volumes. His own hotel in New York is the Carlyle, where $30 a day will barely get a room, to say nothing about food. In fact, it will not go far in a less expensive hotel.

But it is not this matter that I wish to discuss at this moment. It is the proposed ban on institutional advertising. The Treasury does not wish that this form of advertising should be regarded as a proper business expense. Yet, the same U. S. Treasury engages in and promotes its own institutional advertising. Let me cite:

"How time turns into dollars/when you invest in U. S. Savings Bonds." This is part of a very large advertisement, the last lines of which read:

"The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. The Treasury Department is grateful to Perpetual Building Association and The Advertising Council for patriotic support."

Another reads "Uncle Sam tips his hat to the ladies/for their part in the Savings Bond Program." This is another large advertisement and contains "A Message from Our First Lady" advising women to buy bonds. Again, the last lines read:

"The U. S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. The Treasury Department is grateful to Perpetual Building Association and The Advertising Council for patriotic support."

Another large advertisement contains the following:

"For twenty years America's newspapers have published Savings Bonds ads at no cost to the Government. The Treasury Dept. is grateful to The Advertising Council and this newspaper for their patriotic support."

The Treasury is willing to take the space for these advertisements for free or to permit a business firm to use it to mention its own name. But the Internal Revenue Service refuses to permit a firm to charge off as a business expense, let us say, an advertisement warning against inflation or rejecting some concept of management — for instance, labor relations.

In a word, the Treasury does not have a general guiding principle about institutional advertising. Instead, it has set up a censorship on the Press; it, the Treasury, will determine what is permissible advertising and what is not permissible advertising. This has nothing whatsoever to do with plugging up holes in income tax collections. Such holes can be found in Switzerland, Panama, Hongkong and other places. It can be found to be big holes full of green dollars. What the censorship means is that the Treasury permits as a business expense that which pleases the Treasury.

But who in the Treasury is so erudite, so omniscient, so knowledgeable, as to be able to determine for the whole American people what should and what should not appear in the Press? What is the name of this genius? Is he the fellow who decided that giving Castro blackmail money is charity?

The Secretary of the Treasury knows how wrong some of the schemes that he is supposed to endorse are. His life as a man of wealth, as the son of a banker, as a businessman and government official have provided ample opportunity to know what it costs to get around in a big city. He knows what it costs to do business from experience. He knows that he cannot manage to do much on $30 a day either in Washington or New York. Why does he not talk up when he is made to be responsible for nonsense?

There is something about those who inherit millions which makes them antagonistic to those who do not inherit millions. A salesman, working for a living, who is required to cover big cities, to dress not elegantly but passably well, who has to take customers out for lunch or dinner or to theater, cannot do it on $30 a day. Either he takes the money out of his own pocket or his firm pays for it. If he takes it out of his own pocket, it will be more profitable to drive a truck. On the other hand, a Japanese, West German or British salesman can spend what he needs to spend to make the deal.

Your Satellites Are Showing, Buster

Now It's Dancing To Musical Commercials

By John Crosby

Lester Lanin, the society band-leader, sat down over a glass of ginger ale the other day and discussed his newest album. It consists entirely of commercials arranged for dancing. You heard me — commercials! Among the songs you can swing around the floor to, your beloved in your arms, are L & M, Kent (oh, there's a swinger), Marlboro, Bon Ami, Beechnut, Pillsbury — and a host of others.

This leads us one step closer to the day when the sole purpose of life will be advertising just as Rosser Reeves says it should be. "I find a lot of those commercials are excellent musically," says Mr. Lanin. (He's right, too. Some of the best composers are writing commercials now.) "Budweiser and Schlitz have wonderful melodies. Women love them, they listen to them all day — and we thought we'd have fun with this album."

"I'm doing the Newport cigarette commercial as a cha-cha, and I'll do Robert Hal this way . . ." And he hummed and foot-tapped and head-nodded his way through the Robert Hall commercial which, just between us fellows, I don't think is one of the better tunes. I mean if you got to dance to commercials — (ultimately there'll be nothing but commercials to dance to) — I can think of a lot better ones than that.

"The commercials I didn't use were either because the companies didn't get in touch with me or the music was not popular or slightly uncommercial." Uncommercial commercials? I tell you there are wheels within wheels in this business. Lester Lanin is a very happy fellow. His cup runneth over to such a degree, it's likely to make you a little sick to your stomach. "You meet nice people." At the dances, he means. "They just want to have fun and there I am — in the middle of fun. My grandfather, my father, and all of eight brothers were more or less musicians. We've been in this music and band business for 123 years. You know, we were just picked Band of the Year in Australia and New Zealand."

Lanin feels he has his finger right on the pulse of the younger generation. "You see, we grow right up with the kids. We play at their debuts (he pronounces it d-BEWS) and their weddings and their daughter's weddings."

You might almost say that whenever they're not playing polo, they're dancing to Lester Lanin's music. "We believe in pronouncing the melody and playing the beat. I lay the beat down. And the variety of my engagements makes it thrilling."

Lanin has forty units (his word for what we used to call a band) and he spends some of his time checking in at several of the parties they're playing. "It doesn't hurt to be nice," he says happily. "It doesn't cost me anything to come in and ask if everything is all right. I enjoy it," he added, his cup running over all over you. "Sometimes I've gone into a dozen places in a day. I'll run over to the Plaza for a luncheon, then go to a couple of weddings and a tea dance. Then I start with the dinner places — go over to the St. Regis Roof, then back to the Pierre, run over to the River Club . . ."

It's talk like that that starts revolutions, I always say, but no one pays any attention until it's too late? What was the world dancing to? Latin American tunes? "Those are here to stay," he said, "although society doesn't like them. Cafe society does. They like a predominate of Latin American rhythms. Society likes a bright tempo, called a society beat. Cafe society likes a businessman's bounce and colleges like it slow and mellow."

Do people ever not dance, I wondered? "There are always reasons why they're not dancing. Maybe they're depressed because the team broke its winning streak. I remember one wedding when the mother of the bride was ill and had only a few weeks to live. She was allowed to come to the wedding but you should have seen the faces on the guests. Long, long and sad. They didn't realize that all the mother wanted was to live to see this day — that it was a happy occasion. Well, I knocked the living hell out of them. I never played more cheerfully in my life."

"And the people danced finally. Yes, they did!" He sighed at the memory. "I want to make people happy. I'm like a nurse who is looking after a patient and like her I'm full of love. When I'm not, I'll quit — bang!"

But he rarely dances himself and never, never mixes with the guests. (New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

Communism, it will be a blow to U.S. prestige far more severe than the Cuban invasion fiasco. In the case of Cuba, American public opinion is not more aroused than it is because the people know that the U.S. can "handle" Cuba whenever the reason becomes urgent and compelling enough. Laos is a different matter. A Communist takeover there would expose all of Southeast Asia to Soviet and Red Chinese domination and gravely jeopardize free world positions in that entire continent.

These grave international factors are obviously propelling Kennedy into a meeting with Khrushchev under conditions that he himself opposed only a few short weeks ago. The meeting will be held without adequate preparation, without prior agreements worked out at lower diplomatic levels, and with Russia again holding all the high cards at the negotiating table.

In this situation, Kennedy must rely on a basic U.S. premise — that Khrushchev does not want and will not risk becoming involved in a major war. Kennedy's problem is to convince the Russian leader of America's firmness by words, where words have not impressed Khrushchev heretofore.

WORLD CONDITIONS — President John F. Kennedy's decision to have a face-to-face meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has involved him in personal diplomacy to a greater degree than any of his predecessors. This in spite of his attacks on personal diplomacy during the presidential campaign.

It is apparent from his decision that world tensions are rising, not diminishing, and that Kennedy has adopted the attitude of his predecessor, which is to make any effort which might hold forth the glimmer of a promise to increase chances for peace. It is also apparent that world conditions, particularly in Asia, are more precarious than the American public has been led to believe. While Kennedy has gone out of his way to emphasize the dangers to peace inherent in the Communist-backed aggression in Laos, it must be said his words so far have been much tougher than his deeds.

Kennedy still stands for a neutral Laos, but the impression fostered by administration foreign policy officials is that that little country is essentially lost to the West and probably will be written off. If and when Laos falls under the undisguised domination of Communism, it will be a blow to U.S. prestige far more severe than the Cuban invasion fiasco.

These grave international factors are obviously propelling Kennedy into a meeting with Khrushchev under conditions that he himself opposed only a few short weeks ago. The meeting will be held without adequate preparation, without prior agreements worked out at lower diplomatic levels, and with Russia again holding all the high cards at the negotiating table.

In this situation, Kennedy must rely on a basic U.S. premise — that Khrushchev does not want and will not risk becoming involved in a major war. Kennedy's problem is to convince the Russian leader of America's firmness by words, where words have not impressed Khrushchev heretofore.

misericordia and haggard; his face is dirty and unshaven, and he refuses to see even his best friends. Our physician thinks the nerve should be cut."

The pain of trigeminal neuralgia is described as sharp, lancinating, burning, and shocklike. It is precipitated by moving or touching a certain area of the face. The sufferer learns through experience that any movement of the face, jaws, or tongue is likely to produce an immediate paroxysm; he cannot eat, yawn, shave, spit, or even pray out loud for relief.

On the other hand, in painfree periods, these people can do what they please with the face. But sooner or later (weeks to months) the paroxysms recur.

Dozens of medical remedies have been advocated. The latest include vitamin B12, Dilantin, and Mephenasin.

Surgery is advocated should these measures fail. This form of treatment usually means destruction of the sensory nerve of the face (trigeminal) which is followed by numbness of the face and tongue. The surgeon may inject alcohol into the affected nerve as a trial run, allowing the sufferer to determine whether he prefers a numb face and no pain or an alive face with pain. An alternate method is to remove the covering of the nerve center (ganglion) and stir up the tissues. This relieves without leaving the face numb.

SWITCHING SMOKES D. S. L. writes: Because of the cancer scare I have switched from cigarettes to cigars. Is this a form of self-deception?

REPLY Not according to cancer society statistics.

NECK SENSATION A. G. writes: My 14 year old daughter complains of a choking sensation when she ties a scarf around her neck, and also with high necked blouses and sweaters. What can you suggest about this annoying condition?

Implored Sam Himmell: "I want no part of outer space: You keep your moon and star. Give me one bit of inner space. Where I can park my car."

Bobby Kennedy Talks Of Moving Military Bases Away From South

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — For the first time, Southern members of Congress are getting worried that Washington may yank some of the big military bases out of the South because of racial discrimination. Attorney General Bob Kennedy has been talking privately about this, and Southern leaders figure that Kennedy is just tough enough to do what he's talking about.

Partly because of the power of Southern Congressmen, partly because of the climate, the South has a large proportion of military bases. The move South began during World War I, when training had to be rushed and the Southern climate was found better for maneuvers.

Since then, Southern bases have expanded, partly because on the Senate Armed Services Committee sit such powerful solons as Dick Russell of Georgia, chairman; Harry F. Byrd (Va.), John Stennis (Miss.), Sam Ervin (N. C.), and Strom Thurmond (S.C.). On the House Armed Services Committee, Carl Vinson of Georgia sits as omnipotent chairman, together with such important Southerners as Paul Kilday (Tex.), Mendel Rivers (S.C.), Eddie Hebert (La.), Arthur Winstead (Miss.), O. C. Fisher (Tex.), Porter Hardy (Va.), and George Huddleston (Ala.).

But recently military factors have changed. In any war with Russia, troops need to be acclimated to rigorous winter conditions and mountainous terrain. This was one defect with American troops trained in the South who had to fight in Korea. Also, military men complain that their integrated troops get along well in camp but have to separate on the edge of Southern towns and use bus, transportation, and restaurant facilities set aside for white and colored.

Added to this is the fact that certain Northern states have become distressed areas; while the South, in contrast, is relatively prosperous.

All this adds up to why Congressmen are keeping an anxious eye on tough Attorney General Kennedy and his threats to enforce integration.

John Birch Amendment The expected battle over parochial school aid didn't develop as the House Education and Labor Committee gave final approval to federal aid to education. But there was an unexpected, closed-door skirmish over a John Birch Society amendment.

The showdown vote on the school bill was 17 to 14. Only two Democrats—Herbert Zelenko of New York and Ralph Scott of North Carolina—joined 12 Republicans in opposing it.

Before the vote, however, GOP Congressman Edgar Hiestand of California, a pillar of the John Birch Society, caused a brief uproar by demanding approval of a Birch-sponsored proposal that schoolteachers be required to take an anti-Communist oath of "loyalty" to the United States.

Hiestand was careful not to identify the controversial John Birch Society with his amendment, but Rep. John Brademas, Indiana Democrat, quickly sensed what was going on.

"This is utterly ridiculous," objected Brademas. "I had hoped that this sort of thinking was a thing of the past, but apparently we still have it with us. Why do you want to castigate teachers only, as potential un-Americans? While you are at it, why not make others take a loyalty oath — the contractors who build schools, their workers, maybe even school children?"

"Why stop there?" sardonically suggested Democratic Rep. James

Roosevelt of California. "Why not include everyone—those who supply building materials for schools, textbook publishers, business people generally?"

Hiestand finally wilted under the ridicule.

"I'm not saying that my amendment is perfect," he conceded. "Maybe it should be reworded. I'm getting a lot of suggestions. Maybe the amendment isn't even necessary. I don't know."

The committee agreed by rejecting it, 19 to 12, in a party line vote. All Democrats opposed Hiestand and all Republicans supported him.

Bull Connor, the minus quantity police chief of Birmingham, was roundly criticized by Alabamians for his handling of the Freedom Riders fracas, but not Floyd Mann, Alabama director of public safety. Mann, a career cop who trained in Alexander City and Opelika, rescued one Negro student as he was about to be beaten to death in Montgomery, and used level-headed tactics in calming the mob. It hadn't been for him, the U.S. marshals might have been overwhelmed when the crowd started converging on the First Baptist Church as Dr. Martin Luther King led a meeting inside. Alabama newspapers were almost unanimous in criticizing mob violence and putting the finger on Gov. John Patterson for courting trouble . . . The great majority of level-headed Alabamians, though opposed to integration, also oppose mob rule . . . Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama is at least frank. The annual migration to Europe will begin in a week. Close to a million Americans will go. They will be armed with passports, cameras and money. The big luxurious liners will steam across the Atlantic loaded with Americans. The Alitalia jets will spin out of Idlewild for Rome; the Pan-American Boeings will head for Paris; the TWA's will nose toward London and Germany.

It happens every summer. Last year, when John F. Kennedy said that the prestige of the United States was low, he was not exaggerating. The people who can afford the trip to Europe can do this country some good, or some harm, as they choose. I wince when I stand in a Paris department store listening to a fat American woman say: "How much is that in real money, honey?"

On the other hand, I don't think Americans must abuse themselves to be liked. For those who desire to know the proper attitude abroad I suggest that you write People-to-People. Waldwick, N. J. For 10 cents, John P. Hansel will send you a little booklet called Americans Abroad. It tells the do's and don'ts of travel.

If you want to know where to go and what to see, try Esquire's Europe in Style. It tells of the little know spots worth seeing. However, the most important matter for Americans abroad is attitude. No matter what country you visit, bear in mind that you are the foreigner, not the people you meet.

The most phlegmatic peasant you will meet in Sweden probably reads more books than you do, and is better versed in world affairs. The waiter at Hostaria dell'Orso in Rome may speak funny English, but it won't be as bad as your brand of Italian and he will not laugh at your mistakes.

The best attitude to maintain—whether you go to Germany or Ireland—is that you are a guest, and a guest usually gets no more respect than he is willing to offer. If you patronize an established shop, do not feel that the clerks are trying to rob you because you are a so-called rich American. They have set prices. The only place where it is permissible to haggle is at a bazaar.

I found, for example, that Arabs are disappointed if their original price is accepted. They enjoy the fine swordplay of bargaining.

Do not compare our country with theirs to their disadvantage. If an Italian points to the tower at Pisa as a big structure, do not say: "You can shove that thing in the cellar of our Empire State Building."

Our biggest fault is as brag-garts. We are fond of pretending that these people are all rich Texans. It isn't true. I traveled with Texans and their men were the only ones to remove their hats when speaking to a woman shopkeeper. None of them talked about how big Texas is or how, when they haven't got change for a toll bridge, they buy the bridge.

Here's an answer to Shakespeare's "What's in a name?" query—Ken E. Kennedy is first Democrat in 129 years to be elected Millington, Mich., township supervisor.

Most Europeans are gifted with good manners. It is more than a veneer. They use them when they're among themselves. Americans are in a hurry. They have to see everything and they must see it at once. They can go through the Louvre in Paris in 30 minutes.

None of this is intended to give you the impression that Americans are bores. Far from it. Europeans have a brand of slow gentility which we do not have. Therefore, as long as we are in their lands, it is important that Americans conform to their way, not ours.

One thing all Europeans understand about Americans: they are rich and they spend money. No one likes to live on charity, and the recipient of it always resents the donor. Therefore, any mention of how much America contributes to the welfare of this country or that is in bad taste.

If you want to be gracious, find some things to admire about the country in question, and use these things as conversational openings. You will make friends at once and the smile of gladness induced will have gratitude in it.

The Europeans have their weaknesses too. All the mistakes are not on our side. Some of them like to think of themselves as having an ancient culture braced against our primitive qualities. Too many hands are out for tips. Some of the customs officials search our luggage as though all of us were spies.

Many of us—I am one—speak English only. You will be surprised at how many Europeans speak enough English to be of assistance. Almost all of them will meet you halfway and more than halfway, if you will give them the opportunity.

Of one thing you may be sure. In a world of violin string tension, America cannot afford any more enemies. We need friends and we do not have to beg for them, but those who travel abroad can make them for the rest of us by extending as much consideration as they would like to receive.

And no more. . . . (Copyright 1961, King Features Syndicate Inc.)

Fort Hill Cops League Title By Beating Allegany, 4-2

Rice, Price, Bosley Hit Home Runs

Price Beats Alco 6th Time; Ronnie Evans Whiffs 15

Circuit clouts by Jim Rice, John Price and Harry "Butch" Bosley in the first, second and fifth innings enabled Fort Hill High School to defeat Allegany's Campers yesterday at Campobello by the score of 4-2 and win the championship of the Allegany County High School Baseball League.

It marked the Sentinel's third win over the Campobello team this season. John Price, victor on each occasion, had beaten the Campers, 1-0, and 3-0, in the first two games of the series and he had blanked Allegany for 19 consecutive innings before Coach Chet Payne's team broke the ice in the sixth inning of yesterday's contest.

Rice Starts Barrage

The Fort Hill home barrage started in the first frame when shortstop Jim Rice blasted a round-tripper to right-center. Price hit one into the gap in left-center for the second homer in the second frame. Glenn Shipway's single and Harry "Butch" Bosley's two-base walk made it 3-0 in the third and Bosley hammered one of Ronnie Evans' pitches over the fence in the right field corner in the fifth frame for Fort Hill's final tally.

Fred Schindler got a life on Jim Rice's error in the 6th and completed the circuit for Allegany's first run in three games against the Sentinels on singles by Jim Stratton and Jim Cox. Roger Flanagan hit a homer over the right field barrier for the Campers' final tally in the 7th frame.

Ronnie Evans limited Fort Hill to six hits and struck out 15 batters, walked four and hit one batsman but the home run ball he served up to three batters caused his undoing.

Beats Alco 6th Time

Price wound up his three-year high school baseball career with a 14-4 record which includes a 6-0 mark against the Campers. His only loss over the three seasons was a 6-5 setback at the hands of Beall High School this year.

The Fort Hill right-hander kept seven hits well spaced, struck out seven and issued three bases on balls. His record for the current season was 6-1.

Bosley, of Fort Hill, and Stratton, Cox and Willett, of Allegany, collected two hits each.

Cop Double Title

It marked the tenth time in the 23-year history of the County League the Fort Hill finished on top under Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh. The win was the 12th in 13 starts for the Sentinels this season and made their league record 11-1. Yesterday's win also gave Fort Hill a sweep of five city games with Allegany and LaSalle.

Allegany wound up the season with a 7-5 record.

Cincy Beats Giants, 5-1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Rookie Ken Hunt, bolstered by Frank Robinson's three-run homer in the first inning, pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants Monday while mastering the league leaders for the second time.

The 6-foot 3-inch right hander, who wasn't even on the Cincinnati roster at training camp, struck out seven and walked two as he notched his fifth win of the season against two defeats.

Robinson put Hunt in business by lacing one of Mike McCormick's pitches over the left field fence after the San Francisco lefty had walked Ed Kasko and given up a single to Vada Pinson.

Pinson, who stayed in the game after his foot was spiked by Wally Post as the two outfielders collided during the fifth inning, collected another single in that frame to run his batting streak to eight games.

The Giants scored their lone run as an outgrowth of the Pinson-Post mishap. Chuck Eiler and Ed Bressoud opened the fifth with singles, then Eiler tagged up at second base and went to third after Pinson had caught a pop fly by Jim Marshall while crashing into Post.

The Giants' second baseman scored when Felipe Alou hit into a fielder's choice.

Brain Injury Is Fatal To Chicago Little Leaguer

CHICAGO (UPI) — A 10-year-old little league baseball player died Monday of a brain injury five days after he was hit on the head by a line drive.

The boy, George McCormick, "loved little league baseball more than anything," his father, Donald said.

George was the second little leaguer to die of baseball injuries in less than two weeks. A Temple Calif., boy, Barry J. Babcock, was hit on the chest by a pitched ball and died May 19.

George McCormick was fatally injured on his first day of practice last Wednesday. He was pitching batting practice in Hinckley Park in the Chicago suburb of Park Ridge. A line drive glanced off his head. George felt all right at first, but Sunday he began to feel dizzy. He was taken to Resurrection Hospital in Chicago where he died.

Doctors said death was caused by a brain injury.

Paul Pender To Fly To London For Bout

LONDON (AP) — Paul Pender got permission today to fly to Britain for the defense of his share of the world middleweight title against Britain's Terry Downes July 11.

Pender, recognized as world champion by Massachusetts, New York and Europe, stopped Downes on cuts in the seventh round when they fought for the title at Boston last January.

N.C. Governor Will Review Seven Cases

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Terry Sanford indicated Monday he will review the cases of seven textile union men now serving prison terms for a dynamite conspiracy during a long, bitter textile strike at Henderson.

Sanford said in answer to a question at his news conference that he has requested the State Paroles Board to furnish him with reports and recommendations on a number of prisoners and that cases of the Henderson unionists were included in the list.

Sanford was questioned regarding the Henderson case after an announcement from the Textile Workers Union of America last Friday that it would officially end the long strike against the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills on June 1.

The governor gave no indication whether he is considering extending clemency to the seven unionists still in prison on charges of conspiring to destroy facilities of the struck textile plant, two years ago.

The seven still in prison include Boyd Payton of Charlotte, Carolina regional director of the TWA, who is serving a 6-10 year term. He and seven others entered prison last November. One of their number, Malcolm Jarrell, was paroled recently.

Payton is formerly of Cumberland, Md.

Unless the governor acts in the case, none of the other seven can hope to be released under parole before next February — when four of the men will have completed one-fourth of their sentences.

Payton and two others will not complete a fourth of their sentences until about two months later. Under the parole law, a prisoner may not be considered for parole until he has served one-fourth of his minimum sentence.

However, if the governor should decide to reduce the sentences by commutation, then they could be considered for parole sooner.

Public Urged To Support Health Bill

Provides Funds For Home Care Services

Dr. Ton van Strien, deputy state health officer, has recommended to the Allegany County Commission on the Problems of the Aging that it study the merits of and support a recently offered federal bill for community health services.

The bill H. R. 4998, is identical to Maryland S. B. 1071, which would provide additional grant-in-aid funds to be used by states for extending and improving the quality, scope and availability of community health services for the aged and chronically ill outside the hospital. It doubles the federal grants for construction of public and non profit nursing homes and it provides for experimental or demonstration hospitals.

Dr. van Strien urged members of the commission to seek the support of public spirited citizens and health agencies for the bill and have them express their concern to their Senators and Congressmen.

Maryland's health program should greatly benefit from the federal bill, according to Dr. V. L. Ellicott, chief of the Bureau of Medical Services and Hospitals, State Department of Health.

"Under Maryland's plan, major responsibility for nursing home and home care services rests on the county and city levels," he said. "Local interest is developing rapidly, but the major obstacle is money. If federal funds become available in the near future, the money problem will be reduced and local services should develop rapidly."

Services to chronically ill patients at home are developing through the coordinated efforts of local health units in cooperation with voluntary and other local organizations including the new aging commissions in Baltimore city and the counties. Quite often the patient's own home is the best place for the chronically ill or disabled patient, Dr. Ellicott explained. Active development and extension of such home care services are specified in the new standards for local health services adopted by the State Board of Health.

Federal funds through H. R. 4998 combined with State and local moneys will go far in developing these urgently needed home care services, according to Dr. Ellicott.

Men Held In Robbery

State's Attorney James S. Getty said yesterday the two men sought here in connection with the armed robbery of a liquor store in March are being held in custody in Manchester, N. H.

Mr. Getty said County Investigator Edwin R. Lila and Sheriff Paul Haberlein will leave tomorrow for New Hampshire to question the two suspects in connection with the holdup of the Allegany Liquor Store on March 18.

Chief Francis P. McGranahan of the Manchester Police Department telephoned Mr. Getty yesterday afternoon and said the two young men were picked up there and also were questioned in connection with several muggings and pocketbook thefts.

Three To Speak At Graduations

Three prominent Allegany County men have accepted invitations to speak at graduation exercises in this county, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will speak at the Oldtown High School graduation on Thursday, June 1. Mrs. George Young, newest member of the County Board of Education, will present diplomas.

Clarence Lippel, prominent local attorney and president of the Potomac Boy Scout Council, will address the Flintstone High School graduates on June 2. J. Goodloe Jackson, president of the County Board of Education, will distribute diplomas.

State's Attorney James S. Getty will speak at the Cresapton Junior High School graduation exercises on Friday, June 9. Mrs. Richard Winer, vice president of the Board of Education, will present diplomas.

The executive board of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, Rideley, will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m. instead of the usual time on Tuesday due to the Memorial Day holiday.

Optimist To Meet

The Optimist Club of Cumberland will meet Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

The bidding:

 1♣ Pass Pass 2♥
 Pass 3♥ Pass 4♥
 Double Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: King of ♣

When a defender has a choice of two leads and the combinations from which he must lead are almost alike, in many cases the selection of the winning play is a matter of mere guesswork. Sometimes, however, a clever diagnostician will detect a difference where none appears to the untrained eye.

South's bid of two hearts is not forcing, but announces a fair hand of good playing strength confined principally to the heart suit. When the opening bid is not kept alive, the fourth hand is allowed considerable latitude in reopening the bidding. He may do so on not much more than suspicion when the opposition has confessed its weakness. In order to make a distinction, South elected to bid one more heart than he had to. With a trickless partner, West considered it the better part of valor to refrain from contesting. The final contract, however, he regarded as a bit of eponymy and doubled with the expectation of laying up something for the winter.

Three club tricks were cashed, on the third of which East discarded a low diamond. Having somewhat similar holdings in spades and diamonds, West tossed a coin and when it turned "heads" he led the king of spades. Declarer ran down every one of his trumps reducing his own hand to the jack of spades and a diamond. West at this point held the high spade and the king-queen of diamonds and found it impossible to discard. If he threw a diamond, dummy would take the last two tricks with the ace-jack of diamonds. If he tossed the high spade, South's jack of spades would become established.

Note how differently this hand will develop if West at trick four leads the king of diamonds. Declarer can run all his trumps, but will be left at the end with just the ace and jack of spades. West can safely throw the queen of diamonds, keeping the setting trick in spades. It is true that West will be up against a guess as to which to hold at the end, but East should help him out by discarding methodically.

Was there any way for West reasonably to deduce that the diamonds rather than the spade was the winning shift? It involved a familiarity with the operation of the squeeze play. It is a fundamental principle of the squeeze that, if one hand becomes completely disconnected from its mate, that play cannot operate.

If the ace of diamonds is driven out, dummy becomes isolated from the closed hand and is no longer a threat.

Both vulnerable. North deals.

The bidding:
 North East South West
 1♣ Pass 1♥ Pass

Management of the diamond suit was declarer's only concern in today's hand. He had his choice of playing for a defensive error, or to resort to a method which mathematically had the greater chance for success. In other words, the percentage play. He chose rather to rely upon the fallibility of the opposition, who, unfortunately for him, firmly stood their ground.

The bidding sequence was natural. Only one issue may be raised and that is as to North's first rebid. Most players with this evenly balanced hand, of minimum proportions, make it a practice to rebid one no trump.

West chose the spade ace for his opening lead and the suit was continued for three rounds. After winning the third trick declarer drew trumps in two rounds. He then eliminated the clubs by playing king-ace and a ruff. His one of his trumps reducing his own hand to the jack of spades and a diamond. West at this point held the high spade and the king-queen of diamonds and found it impossible to discard. If he threw a diamond, dummy would take the last two tricks with the ace-jack of diamonds. If he tossed the high spade, South's jack of spades would become established.

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Words come easily to you — particularly, "Stay together for the sake of the children." I say "Phooey."

Since experts agree that a couple should not adopt a child to keep a marriage together, why should their own children be used for the same purpose?

I speak from a double-pronged experience. My mother took years of abuse from my father. She would have been much happier if she had left him and remarried a man who appreciated her fine qualities.

My husband spent several years ignoring me and taking an active part in every outside activity known to man. He knew I'd cover up for him, stick close to the children and do HIS job as well as mine. And I did.

Now I'm ignoring HIM and he's begging me to be a sweetheart again. Well, the hurt is too deep. A man can't kick a woman around for years and then when he's worn out from running around, expect her to develop amnesia. I wish now I'd left him fifteen years ago. The children were not fooled. Why don't you print this one — or would certain church groups have you fired?—PREMATURELY GRAY

DEAR GRAY: Thanks for another point of view.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a sad sixteen-year-old. The fellow I have been crazy about since grade school always seemed to be going steady with other girls so he never asked me out. Last week he called for a Saturday night movie date and said he and J. had broken up. I was thrilled. When we got to the movie it was crowded and we had to sit pretty close to the front. Half way through the movie he said, "Holy Cow — there's J. over there with Ted!" Then he slumped down in his seat until he was practically on the floor.

The minute the movie ended he rushed me out to a chop suey joint I never heard of before to make sure he wouldn't see anyone he knew. When I got home I cried. My mother said I was a fool to have accepted the date in the first place. Was I?—HUMILIATED

DEAR HUMILIATED: I don't agree with your mother. You had no way of knowing that the fellow was going to behave like a criminal. It takes a lesson to learn — and you've had it. Of doubleton contains one of the honors the recommended play must succeed. True enough, declarer's line of play might have brought home the contract under certain conditions. If, for example, West had both honors, and covered, declarer would have to guess the situation and permit him to hold the trick or, if East held both honors, declarer would win the hand by going up with the ten on East's diamond return. But in the long run he would gain by playing for a doubleton honor which offers a far better chance.

DEAR MOTHER: The boy's parents are obviously ignorant, stubborn, or both. Please, for your daughter's sake, don't stick to the rules of etiquette. Call the boy's parents and invite them to your home soon. If you don't wish to have them for a meal, invite them for a cup of coffee.

Young married couples start out with enough problems. Don't saddle them with two sets of warring parents.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BARGED IN ON: I don't know what variety of nerve you think it takes to protect your privacy but if you don't have it no one can do anything for you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WANTING TO DO THE RIGHT THING: Don't press an 80-year-old mother to move to your city if she is content with her lifelong friends and is active, busy and healthy. She is better off there.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

40,000 Tax Bills Being Mailed Out

Discounts Given In June, July, August

Approximately 40,000 Maryland and Allegany County real estate and personal property tax bills are expected to be in the mail by June 1, William B. Orndorff, county tax collector said yesterday.

For those who pay their taxes next month, there will be a five per cent discount. A four per cent discount will be allowed during July and a three per cent discount in August.

Beginning October 1, interest penalty charges of one half per cent per month will be attached to the unpaid tax bills. This is on both state and county bills.

In past years the one half per cent interest penalty was placed on county taxes on September 1 and on the state tax bills on October 1.

During the recent General Assembly in Annapolis a law was passed to have the county and state interest penalties commence on October 1.

The tax office at the Court House is open from 8:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday. Next month the office will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 12 noon on Saturdays for the convenience of the taxpayer.

During June, July and August a representative of the tax office will visit communities in the county area.

Next Monday and Tuesday the collector will be at the fire hall in Frostburg from 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. On Wednesday the collector will be at the fire hall in Lonaconing during the same hours.

The collector will visit the town hall in Westernport on Thursday next week and will be there from 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

On Friday of next week the collector will be at the VFW Home in Mt. Savage from 9:30 a. m. until noon and at the fire hall in Flintstone from 1:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. Taxpayers are urged to bring their bills when making payments.

City Police Shifts Will Be Changed

An ordinance changing the shifts in the Cumberland Police Department was adopted by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The ordinance, which becomes effective June 1, provides for crews to work from 7 a. m. to 3 p. m., 3 p. m. to 11 p. m. and 11 p. m. to 7 a. m.

At present, shifts are changed at 9 a. m., 5 p. m. and 1 a. m.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said the new shift schedule ordinance provides that officers will be relieved on the job, so there will be police protection at all times.

He added that another advantage will be that officers who come on duty at 11 p. m. will have time to learn conditions on their beats before taverns close.

It will also, he said, eliminate the changing of shifts during the daily 5 p. m. traffic jam.

Fatal Crash Driver Fined

Kurt James Lindstrom, 21, West Orange, N. J., yesterday was fined $25 on a reckless driving charge which resulted from a highway accident on April 26 in which a Potomac State College student was killed.

The fine was imposed by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt, who had heard testimony in the case several weeks ago but had withheld sentence.

The accident occurred on a sharp curve on Martin Mountain. Robert James Dietz, 22, Matawan, N. J., was killed when the car operated by Lindstrom smashed into a stone embankment.

Lindstrom sustained minor injuries and was treated and released at Memorial Hospital. Two other passengers, Robert Kennedy and John Edward Wade, also were injured and were admitted to Memorial Hospital.

ABLers Give $75,000 For Charity Purposes

During a seven-year period employees of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Rocket Center, W. Va. have contributed nearly $75,000 to the ABL Charity Fund.

Roy Satzer, chairman, said the employees gave a total of $74,591.53 during the period of October, 1953 to December 31 last year.

The figures were released by Mr. Satzer following an audit of the fund by J. S. Bosley.

He said a breakdown of the contribution figures during the 1953-60 period shows $71,035.45 donated by salary roll deductions and $3,556.08 by ABL individuals in the form of cash.

During the same period, $73,900 was deposited at the bank with withdrawals amounting to $67,418.20. This leaves a balance in the bank of $6,481.84.

Making up the total contributions for the 1953-60 period are $73,900.04 deposits; $366, December, 1960 salary roll deductions not deposited; $24.50, cash disbursements, and $457.36, re-deposit of refunds.

The refunds were unused funds from Christmas basket allotments which were returned to the bank.

A breakdown of disbursements shows those with written authorization, $66,745.83, and those without written authorization, $761.87.

The disbursements without written authorization represents direct payments to vendors for the Christmas basket program prior to the appointment of a manager and payments of position schedule bond premium.

The 1960 authorizations paid in 1961 were $65, making the total disbursements for the 1953 - 60 period $67,442.70.

Registration Card For Oral Polio Vaccine

This is the basic form for the administration of oral polio vaccine here this week. Most of the form is for the doctors' use. You fill in only your name and address at top left, then go to the right hand side of the card. Skip the top two lines and fill in sex, age, birthdate, birthplace, race, and the number of Salk shots you've had, if any. Illnesses or operations in the past two weeks should be recorded in the section immediately below, and that's all there is to it. Children who have had tonsillectomies within the past two weeks will not be given the vaccine unless their physicians approve. Two other forms, one for adults and one for children, are explained in the story below. Forms may be picked up at drugstores in the county beginning tonight and tomorrow.

Paperwork For Polio Vaccine To Be Slight

Three Simple Forms Involved

Three simple forms are all the paperwork that will be involved for persons who want to take the Sabin oral polio vaccine this week.

Up to 50,000 are expected to receive the vaccine in a community-wide test immunization program sponsored by the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society and financed by Wyeth Laboratories of Philadelphia.

The forms are:

1. Registration card — You fill in your name, address, age, sex, birthdate, birthplace, race, and the number of Salk shots you've had.

Any important illnesses or operations in the past two weeks also go on this card. A child who has had a tonsillectomy within the two previous weeks will not be given the vaccine unless his physician approves.

2. A release form which frankly states that the drug is still in the experimental stage and has not been released for sale by the Public Health Service. It needs only a signature and address.

3. A parental request form, almost identical with the second form, that requires the child's name, age, school, grade, the signature and relationship to the child of the person making the request, and the address.

Two forms, the registration card and either the release or the parental consent form, will be needed for each person taking the vaccine.

School authorities are distributing forms to pupils who will receive the vaccine at school. Adults may pick up their forms at drug stores beginning tonight and tomorrow.

Filling out the forms in advance and taking them to the dispensing centers is expected to speed up the work of the centers and prevent long waiting lines from forming.

Theatre Owners Must Get Licenses

Theater operators of Allegany County must have new licenses by Thursday even though the need for a license was discontinued by a law passed in the recent session of the General Assembly.

An opinion by the Attorney General of Maryland indicates the old law will be in effect until May 1962. By closing time yesterday at the Court House three of the 10 operators had failed to pick up the new licenses.

Oral Vaccine Facts

In this series of reports, Albert B. Sabin, M.D., developer of the oral polio vaccine, answers some of the most common questions about his vaccine.

Q. If my child or I have had three or more doses of Salk vaccine, do we also need the new oral vaccine?

A. Yes. The chief reason is to provide resistance in your intestinal tract, which will interfere with the spread of polio in the family and in the community. The other reasons are that it will immunize those who either failed to acquire immunity through the Salk vaccine or lost it, and provide a powerful boost to the immunity of those who have not previously had the benefit of natural immunizing infection with polioviruses.

Q. How often will I need to take the oral vaccine?

A. There are three different types of polio. In a country with the hygienic and climatic conditions of the U.S.A., the best results are obtained by giving each type of oral vaccine separately at intervals of not less than six weeks during the winter and spring months. The Type I poliovirus is responsible for most epidemics and is the cause of at least 85 per cent of paralytic poliomyelitis. One dose of the Type I vaccine provides immunity within seven days. Available information indicates that this immunity lasts at least several years. Whether or not it may last a lifetime, as is the case after natural infection, can be determined only by future observations.

Q. I have read that the presence of another virus in the intestinal tract may interfere with the effectiveness of the oral vaccine. How can I be sure this didn't happen?

A. Other intestinal viruses occur only rarely during the winter and spring months among American children living at home. The 100 per cent effectiveness of the vaccine in Cincinnati shows that this is not an important problem in the U.S.A.

Ban On New Water Taps Going Out

Companies which purchase water from the City of Cumberland will be asked to deny permission to those who ask additional taps until a new survey of the Cumberland water supply can be made, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

He said the action is temporary, pending the completion of such a water study by a state engineer. Mr. Light said that if the services of a State of Maryland engineer cannot be secured, the City will ask three engineering firms to make the survey.

The temporary ban on additional taps pending engineering advice, he said, is being undertaken for the protection of the city's water supply, to make sure that water is available to meet all requests.

Marbles Finals Reset Wednesday

The Cumberland Marbles Championship finals scheduled yesterday at 4 p. m. at Gephart School Playground were rained out.

Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director, said the event has been rescheduled for Wednesday at 4 p. m. at Gephart Playground.

Film To Be Shown At Central Assembly

A film "Vulture On My Veins," a story of teen-age gang dope addiction, will be shown in full color, Wednesday at 7:45 p. m. in the Central Assembly Church, Johnson and Fayette Streets.

The public is invited to attend, according to Rev. Frank J. Fratto, pastor.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Robertson Jr., Limestone, Me., announce the birth of a son May 23 at an Air Force base hospital there. The mother is the former Miss Arlene Nixon, Oldtown.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adams, 434 North Mechanic Street, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Coffman, 208 East Third Street, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Helrick, Grantsville, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kaiser, RFD 2, Williams Road, a daughter Sunday.

Polio Vaccine Centers Listed

Oral polio vaccine will be dispensed free on Friday and Saturday at the following locations:

Cumberland — City Hall, West Side, Pennsylvania Avenue, John Humbird, Gephart, LaSalle and Fort Hill schools.

Frostburg — Fire Hall, Beall Elementary School.

LaVale — Parkside School, LaVale Fire Hall.

Other Areas — Westernport, Elementary School, Central, Cresaptown, Oldtown and Mt. Savage schools, Flintstone Fire Hall.

Central, Cresaptown, Oldtown and Mt. Savage schools, Flintstone Fire Hall.

Clinics will be held from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m. both days for all who report. Public and parochial school children will receive the vaccine on Thursday from teams of doctors and nurses who will visit their schools.

Polio Vaccine Clinic Help Still Needed

Volunteer lay workers — men and women alike — are still needed to man the oral polio immunization clinics Friday and Saturday.

Two dispensing centers particularly in need of workers are Pennsylvania Avenue School and Gephart School.

Persons who want to help at the South End school may call Mrs. Emaline Yantorno, PA2-4678. Those who want to work at Gephart may call Mrs. Edward Dove, PA 2-5660.

Volunteers who are unable to register with their neighborhood chairman may offer their services at the dispensing centers Friday and Saturday by asking for the doctor in charge. They'll be put to work.

Lewis J. Ort is heading a committee to provide refreshments for workers at all the dispensing centers.

Memorial Set For Victims Of ABL Disaster

A memorial service will be held today at Rose Hill Cemetery for the nine men who lost their lives in the May 22 disaster at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

The tribute to the men who died in the cause of national defense will be a part of the annual Memorial Day program sponsored here by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, according to Thomas R. Farrell and Russell Paupé, co-chairmen on arrangements.

Sales Tax Base Lowers On Thursday

Beginning Thursday, Marylanders will start paying sales tax on articles costing 25 cents or more.

Under this new arrangement, one cent will be paid on all items costing 25 cents to 33 cents. Presently, the tax is not collected on anything costing less than 51 cents. Two cents sales tax will be collected on purchases costing 34 to 66 cents and three cents on those ranging from 67 cents to $1.

Maryland's General Assembly also has extended the sales tax to restaurant meals and carry-out food costing $1 or more. Most general grocery store food items still are exempt.

This program, financed by the sales and cigarette tax increases, will provide a total of about $15 million more for the counties and Baltimore City.

Keyser Firm's Tractor Offer Gets Response

Brazil, Europe, Japan Take Note

The offer of the Tiger Tractor Corporation of Keyser to provide 1,200 tractors for 1,200 prisoners of war held by the Cuban government has brought responses from all over the world to John F. Somerville Jr., president of the Keyser corporation.

Last Monday the Tiger Tractor Corporation offered to supply the tractors at cost and at no profit and the employees agreed to work one day without pay in helping to produce them.

Mr. Somerville said, that the most distant communication came from Tokyo, Japan, where several members of the Japanese Chamber of Commerce wrote a congratulatory letter to the Tiger firm's New York office after reading the tractor story in a Japanese newspaper.

The Keyser company has received letters and post cards from Western Europe and Scandinavian countries. A Brazilian manufacturer also offered his plant facilities to manufacture the tractors if Tiger could not handle the entire order.

Mr. Somerville says it now has been ascertained from Havana that there are 1,214 prisoners involved in the possible exchange. His company has proposed, through the National "Tractors For Freedom" Committee, to furnish 1,214 Tiger tractors each to be equipped with five attachments suitable for farming conditions in Cuba. The total cost would be slightly under $1 million.

Premier Fidel Castro originally had demanded 500 large bulldozers costing about $18 million.

The Keyser man pointed out that the Tiger tractor is suitable only for farming and not for such things as construction of Russian jet airfields, as could be done with large tractors.

As a result of the Tiger offer, Mr. Somerville has had the opportunity to talk personally with Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, head of the Cuban revolutionary government in exile; Walter Reuther and Mayor Robert Wagner of New York City.

Man Sentenced To 190 Days

Curtis E. Miller, 35, of 14 Grand Avenue, was committed to Allegany County Jail yesterday for a total of 190 days following a hearing yesterday morning in Trial Magistrate Court on two assault charges and three motor vehicle counts.

Miller was arrested by City Police Sunday evening after the car he was operating went out of control on Oldtown Road and smashed into a dwelling.

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt conducted the hearing and found Miller guilty of assaulting City Police Officers Clarence Valentine and John Vanetta. Miller was fined $100 and given 30 days in jail on each count.

However, Magistrate Weatherholt ruled the two jail terms may run concurrently, but an additional 60 days was imposed in default of the $200 in fines.

Miller also was found guilty of reckless driving, failure to stop and notify a property owner after an accident involving damage and another motor charge. He was fined $25 for reckless driving and $100 on each of the other counts. Miller was jailed for another 70 days in default of the fines.

The two officers testified yesterday they sustained $33 worth of damages to their uniforms and equipment when Miller assaulted them. The court also ordered Miller to make restitution to the two officers.

Officer Valentine said Miller was headed east on Oldtown Road in the vicinity of the Fort Cumberland Homes when he swerved around a parked car and lost control of his vehicle.

Miller's car jumped the curb, rammed a utility pole and then struck the front of 124 Oldtown Road, causing considerable damage.

Police Will Aid In Safety Drive

The Cumberland Police Department will do all in its power to cooperate with the "See the Light — Slow Down and Live" campaign, according to Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

He said Gov. Tawes asked all drivers to operate vehicles with headlights on during the observance today and tomorrow.
